Skinny Girls Don't Have OOMPH!

It takes those extra lbs. of solid flesh to "bring out" your natural curves

If you're, otherwise healthy but skinny, scrawny, rundown and lbs. underweight, try correcting this common mistake in eating.

THERE are three essential substances that many thin, scrawny and undernourished girls may fail to get in sufficient quantity from the food they eat. These substances are Vitamin B_1, calcium phosphate and iron. If, like thousands of others, you are underweight without organic cause . . . never seem to gain a pound . . . are so thin that you look gangling and gawky from insufficient amounts of these precious elements, don't get discouraged.

You may find that by correcting this simple mistake in eating you can easily add firm solid flesh . . . extra alluring pounds that help bring out those natural eye-catching curves. A simple and easy way is to try the amazing new product called Numal that supplies, in significant amounts, the Vitamin B_1, calcium phosphate and iron needed in the daily diet. Plus a food that in itself is a great help in adding extra pounds.

Take 1 heaping teaspoonful of Numal 3 times a day. It is pleasant, assimilable and easy to take. You will get the equivalent in Vitamin B_1 content of 34 cakes of average moist baker's yeast . . . the iron equivalent of 15 pounds of tomatoes or 1¾ pounds of spinach or 9 pounds of boiled beets...and the calcium equivalent of ⅘ths pint of fresh cow's milk, the phosphorus content of 1 glass.

Remember, if you don't get a sufficient quantity of Vitamin B_1 in your daily diet, you may suffer loss of appetite. And without sufficient iron, the element that helps build rich red blood, you may be rundown, pale, weak and listless. You need calcium phosphate for sound teeth and sturdy bones.

If loss of weight persists see your doctor

SKINNY MEN ARE NOT ATTRACTIVE EITHER

. . . a skinny, scrawny body is no asset in social or business life. Give NUMAL a chance to build you up, put firm flesh on you.

Numal Must Please You or No Cost

So if you are skinny, gangling and bony from lack of these precious nutrients, don't wait any longer. Get Numal today. You will want those extra pounds that "bring out" your natural eye-catching curves. Take Numal faithfully for a week. See if you can't actually feel the difference . . . gain weight and better color. If after this short period you honestly don't feel Numal has benefited you, just return the bottle for a complete refund of your money. Numal costs but a few cents a day to use.

MISS MISCHIEF

IT wasn't that Molly Peterson tried to get herself and other people into trouble, it was simply a talent with her—a mysterious gift that she shared perhaps only with great personages of the past in whom this talent became history. In fact, her father, Harold Peterson, remarked after one disaster.

"If you had power, you'd be dangerous to humanity."

"Really, father? Do you think someday I'm going to be another Mata Hari or something exciting?" Molly queried.

"I have no doubt of it; no doubt at all. When the world's on fire, I'll know who lit the match," Harold Peterson grunted.

"Oh, father, you're so wonderful to think such nice things about me," Molly said enthusiastically and gave him a big hug. "See you later. Have to meet the kids at 'Pops'. If Joey calls, tell him it's alright for Saturday night."

"Yes, Molly," Mr. Peterson answered absent-mindedly.

"And, father, may I please have five dollars?" Molly asked sweetly.

"For what?" Peterson roared.

"Oh, dear, you have such a bad memory. For that darling blouse I saw in Finnian's window yesterday. You said I could have it. You said so right in front of mother. You said . . ."

"Alright, alright. Here, take it. But this is the last thing you're going to buy this month, understand, young lady?" Again Harold Peterson grunted and went back to his newspaper.

The blouse was still in Finnian's window, but Molly happened to look in Smith's Pet Shop and there he was, the kind of dog she had always dreamed of having—a St. Bernard pup, on sale for only five dollars.

Molly stood in front of window running her finger in a circle that the pup tried to follow with his big, clumsy paw from the inside. He looked at her with his large, sad, brown eyes and she melted into a small drop of acquiescence.

"I'll take that St. Bernard pup you have in the window," Molly told Mr. Smith, handing him the new, crisp five dollar bill.

"Now, hold on, Molly. Do you have your parents' approval to buy a pet? You know what happened to the parrot, the monkey, the two Siamese cats and the Doberman pinscher you bought last year. They were all returned within three days," Jasper Smith warned, shaking his head sadly.

"Yes, I know I've been a nuisance to you, Mr. Smith, but the parrot just didn't like Daddy for some reason and kept calling him bad names. Mother was afraid of the monkey. The two Siamese kittens tore up the new drapes and the furniture. The Doberman ran off with the plans for a bridge Daddy had spent six months drawing up and ate them. That's why I had to bring them back, honestly! Otherwise we would have kept them all. It's alright to get the puppy. I promise I won't return him, no matter what. Please, Mr. Smith." Molly pleaded, a tear swelling in one clear, mischievous blue eye.

"Well, Molly, I don't like it. No, sir, I don't like it one bit. But alright, if your folks have given their approval. But mind you, young lady, if something happens this time, you'll have to find a good home for the animal yourself."

"Oh, yes, certainly, Mr. Smith," Molly vowed solemnly.

Still reluctant about the transaction, Jasper Smith went to the window and lifted the huge pup in his arms.

He's going to be a big boy," Jasper smiled, stroking the St. Bernard's head gently. "He has to have lots to eat, too. Steaks and the like."

"Steaks?" Molly gulped. Suddenly she had a vision of herself mopping floors and washing dishes in all-night restaurants to pay for the animal's meals. But she buttoned her lip with determination as she watched Mr. Smith lower the St. Bernard into a wooden crate.

"Are you sure you can manage this, Molly? It's pretty heavy," Mr. Smith asked, breathing heavily from holding the dog for only a few minutes.

"There's Joey!" she exclaimed, pointing out of the window at a tall, broad-shouldered, high school junior. "Joey! Joey!" Molly called, leaning out of the door.

"Oh, Hi, Molly!" Joey replied, and then looked aghast as he realized where she was.

"Joey, could you help me with a package?" she asked sweetly.

"Molly! Not again!" he wailed. "What will your father say?"

"Why, he'll be tickled to death, of course!" Molly said, frowning and trying to give him the high sign to be quiet.

"Yeah, I'll just bet," Joey mumbled. "Here, I'll take that, Mr. Smith," he offered, lifting the crate. He almost staggered under the weight of the pup.

"He doesn't eat humans, does he?" Joey quipped as they walked out of the shop and into the street.

"No, steaks. And that remark wasn't funny, Joey Adams," Molly replied indignantly.

"Ohhh, brother, wait till your old man gets a load of this!" he persisted.

"My father isn't an old man and he isn't an ogre. He'll just adore Mr. Carmichael," she argued.

"Mr. Carmichael! Is that what you've named that mutt? Mr. Carmichael?" Joey screeched.

Molly simply glared at her companion and looked lovingly at the box.

Although Molly was absolutely sure her father would take to Mr. Carmichael like a bear to honey, she kept him hidden in the attic the first two days. Mr. Peterson thought he heard strange noises during the night, but decided after the first scratchings and thumps that the house was getting old and the shutters were banging in the wind.

It was midnight of the third day of Mr. Carmichael's arrival that a formal introduction was made. Shortly after twelve a terrible commotion that could be heard three blocks away aroused the Petersons from a deep sleep. They pulled on their robes and ran down the stairs to the living room where they found Mr. Carmichael with his teeth firmly grasping the pants leg of a burglar. The St. Bernard was growling ferociously and the intruder was screaming in fear.

"Good heavens!" Mr. Peterson exclaimed. "Who's that?"

"Mr. Carmichael," Molly answered proudly.

"Y-You know this thief?" Peterson bellowed.

"No, of course I don't. Mr. Carmichael is our new watch dog!"

And before Peterson could say a word to the policeman who grasped Mr. Carmichael's victim by the collar, the St. Bernard jumped joyously into his arms and kissed him solidly on the cheek.

"Well, at least he's useful," Mr. Peterson said, rubbing the gallant pup's head. "I think he can come down out of the attic and join the family."

PATSY'S CLUB PAGE

Hi, fans! Sorry our space is limited, so I can only answer a few of your delightful letters:

Dear Patsy:
My girl friend and I never miss an issue of your wonderful magazine. We especially like the stories with your friend Nancy, because the two of you seem to be such good pals and have so many interesting adventures together, just like Helen and I. Have you ever had an argument or misunderstanding with Nancy?

Sincerely,
BETTY PAITEL
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Betty:
Nancy and I have been close friends for years, and never once have we had a serious quarrel or misunderstanding. We've been too busy sticking together and protecting ourselves against Hedy's childish plots. Nancy and I have really had some swell times together. You'll be able to follow our exciting adventures in the next issue of PATSY WALKER as well as in each issue of PATSY AND HER PALS. Be sure to look for us.

Love,
Patsy

Dear Patsy:
Have you decided what you're going to do after you graduate from high school? I graduate next year and am wondering if I should go to secretarial school or perhaps study designing. I'm crazy about styling and make most of my own clothes. What would you advise me to do?

Wondering,
PHYLLIS ROGERS
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Phyllis:
Choosing a career is really a major problem for a girl. In these busy days, there are plenty of good secretarial jobs available, with chance for advancement. But if you love designing and making some of your own clothes, as I do, then I'm sure you'll be mighty happy as a fashion stylist. Anyway, I would suggest you talk over the matter with your parents. You can rely on their mature experience and their advice will be in your own best interests.

Love,
Patsy

Dear Patsy:
I think Buzz is positively handsome, and so charming too. Wish I had a boy friend like him! Did you ever have a boy friend before you met Buzz?

Love,
ARLENE MILLER
Boston, Mass.

Dear Arlene:
Buzz has always been my one-and-only boy friend. Before I met him in high school, I never went out on dates with boys alone . . . just group gatherings such as picnics and beach parties. But when Buzz came into my life, I lost my heart and it's been a happy twosome ever since! You're right . . . Buzz is handsome and charming. I hope you'll be as lucky as I am, Arlene!

Love,
Patsy

Dear Patsy:
I accepted an invitation to a school dance from a pleasant, quiet boy who just transferred to our school. But then another boy who I've liked for a long while asked me. As much as I wanted to go with the second boy, I did not have the nerve to break my date with the newcomer. Did I foolishly throw away a good opportunity to get my secret "crush" to know me better?

Bewildered
SHIRLEY RANDALL
Los Angeles, California

Dear Shirley:
You did exactly the right thing in keeping your first accepted date for that dance. If you had broken the date just to go with someone else, and word got around what you had done, you would have lost the respect of every girl in your class, to say nothing of the boys who don't like the "two-timing" type of gal. Even your secret "crush" would not have been flattered but rather would have lost all interest in you when he'd found out you had broken another date to go with him. For if you would do it to someone else, you might do the same to him someday. I'm sure you'll find many other good opportunities to get better acquainted with him. And you'll never regret having done the polite and proper thing in sticking to your first date for that dance.

Love,
Patsy

Dear Patsy:
As mean as Hedy is, I still like to read stories about her and how you usually turn the tables on her. Please let us have more and more adventures with Hedy co-starred.

Sincerely,
EVELYN ELLIS
San Antonio, Texas

Dear Evelyn:
Many readers have written to tell me how much they enjoy the Hedy stories. You'll find a load of fun-packed adventures involving Hedy Wolfe, Buzz and me in another book called PATSY AND HEDY. The latest issue is on your favorite newsstand now and I guarantee it'll satisfy your appetite for bigger and better "Hedy" hilarities!

Love,
Patsy

Don't forget now, keep those wonderful letters coming. I'll answer as many as I can on this club page in each issue. Send your letter to: PATSY WALKER, 270 Park Avenue, New York 17, New York.

WITHOUT LIPSTICK

And These Newly Luscious Colors Can't Smear Anything —or Anyone

Bid 'good-by' to lipstick and see your lips more beautiful than ever before. See them decked in romance-hued liquid color that really can't smear. Obviously this miracle couldn't be performed by lipstick made of grease, and it isn't. A Liquid does it . . . Liquid Liptone contains no grease—no wax, no paste. Just pure, vibrant color.

Now you can make up your lips before you go out—and no matter what you do—or whether it be in sunlight or in moonlight—they will stay divinely red until long after you are home again.

Makes the Sweetest Kiss Because It Leaves No Mark on Him!

Think of it! Not a tiny bit of your Liquid Liptone leaves your lips for his—or for a napkin or tea-cup. It stays true to your lips alone

Feels Marvelous On Your Lips . . . they stay soft and smooth, protected against sun and wind. At all stores $1

Please try SEVERAL SHADES at my invitation
